A Story about FRIENDSHIP and SUMMER LOVE

Sixteen-year-old Seraphina's life is far from ordinary. The home schooled teen spends her summers traveling the country performing in her mother's gypsy storytelling show with her younger sister, an impulsive Capuchin monkey, and screeching macaw. Not exactly typical.

Ordinary is what she wants. Graphic tees, crazy socks, and an abundance of quirky shoes are what floats Sera's boat more than her rainbow colored hair, bangles on her wrists, and gypsy tiered skirts. Friends don't come easy when you're dressed like an eccentric and only staying put for a week at a time.

Sera gets her wish for a week-long friend when she bumps into Noah while avoiding some creepy carnies at the fair. Tall, hot, and seemingly perfect, he's very interested in Sera on day one. First problem: Noah is there for the horse shows and Sera is terrified of them.

When Sera meets his small town, horse-loving friends, her second problem shows up. One girl complicates everything in Sera's life when Noah is more interested in Sera than her.

Her third problem: Noah's best friend, Josh, is interested in being more than a friend to Sera as well. He says he's short, pasty, and average compared to Noah. A typical side-kick that never gets the girl. However, as Sera gets to know him better, they have more in common than she thought.

A week full of first kisses, big time crushes, conquering fears, and all the complicated things that friendship can bring, Sera gets far more than she bargained for. If only she can make it to the end of the week making sure the show goes on while staying true to heart and not ruining a long-lasting friendship before their time is up.
