A letter to the people of Scotland, on the alarming attempt to infringe the Articles of the Union, and introduce a most pernicious innovation, by... James Boswell

"WHEN I presumed to write to my countrymen last year, to rouse their spirit against Mr. Fox's East-India bill, I had the happiness to find my letter received not only with indulgence, but with a generous warmth of heart which I can never forget, but to the latest moment of my life shall most gratefully remember. The fire of loyalty was kindled. It flew through our counties and our boroughs. The King was addressed: the constitution was saved. I was proud to have been able thus ciere viros; prouder still than of receiving the applause of the minister of the CROWN, which he was pleased to convey to me in a very handsome letter; upon which, however, I set a high value, considering not only the minister, but the man; and accordingly it shall be preserved in the archives of my family."

This is an edition of a classical book first published in the eighteenth century.
